

Brindlewatch Billing Guide and Roam Link Rates

Version 2.4 | Effective 1 February 2026 | Owner: Billing Operations All prices in US dollars, before sales tax

1. Keep plans

Plan	Monthly billing	Annual billing	Cameras	Clip history
Keep Basic	$6 per month	$60 per year	1	14 days
Keep Plus	$13 per month	$130 per year	up to 5	30 days
Keep Pro	$22 per month	$220 per year	up to 20	60 days, plus continuous recording

Without a plan a camera still gives live view and alerts, but nothing is recorded.

2. Billing dates

A monthly plan bills on the same day of each month as the day it started; if a month has no such day, it bills on the last day of that month. An annual plan bills once a year on its start date. Every charge produces an invoice, e-mailed to the login address and listed in the app under Settings > Billing.

3. Changing plan mid-month

Moving up on a monthly plan takes effect at once. We charge the difference for the days left: (new monthly price - old monthly price) x days remaining / 30. Every month is treated as 30 days for this purpose.

Example: Keep Basic to Keep Pro with 15 days left is $(22 - 6) \times 15 / 30 = \8.00 charged today, then $22 from the next billing date.

Moving down on a monthly plan takes effect on the next billing date, with no credit for the current month.

4. Roam Link

Roam Link is the cellular service for Trek Cam. It costs $5 per camera per month and covers the United States. Each camera includes 3 GB of data per month, and allowances are not shared between cameras. Extra data is $4 per GB, and a part GB is rounded up to a whole one.

Example: a Trek Cam uses 4.2 GB in a month. It is 1.2 GB over, billed as 2 GB: $8 on top of the monthly fee.

5. Using a Trek Cam abroad

Outside the United States a Trek Cam on Roam Link connects through partner networks, and each day abroad carries a Roam Day fee.

Zone	Countries	Roam Day fee	Cap per camera per billing cycle	Roam Week pass
Zone 1	Canada, Mexico	$10 per camera per day	$60	$45 per camera
Zone 2	United Kingdom, Ireland, European Union	$15 per camera per day	$90	$70 per camera

Roam Link does not work in other countries.

How days are counted:

- A day is a calendar day, midnight to midnight in the account's home time zone - not a 24-hour period from the first connection.
- Any connection to a partner network on a day, however short, makes that day a Roam Day.
- Each Trek Cam is charged separately.
- A camera that is switched off, or set to Wi-Fi only, does not connect and is not charged.
- Data used abroad comes out of the same monthly allowance.

Cap. Roam Day fees stop adding up once they reach the cap for that camera in a billing cycle. The cap counts Roam Day fees only.

Roam Week pass. A pass covers one camera for 7 consecutive calendar days from activation. It has to be activated in the app before the camera first connects abroad and cannot be added to a trip afterwards. Days abroad outside those 7 days are charged as Roam Days.

Examples:

- One camera crosses into Canada at 11:10 pm on the 3rd and comes back at 7:30 am on the 5th. The trip lasted about 32 hours but touched three calendar days: $3 \times $10 = \30 .
- Three cameras spend 3 calendar days in Ireland: $3 \times 3 \times $15 = \135 .
- One camera spends 9 calendar days in Mexico: $9 \times $10$ would be more than the Zone 1 cap, so the cap amount is billed.

On the invoice these lines read ROAM DAY Z1 or ROAM DAY Z2, and the quantity is camera-days.

6. When a customer disputes travel charges

A Roam Day charge is correct when the connection log shows the camera on a partner network that day. Tier 1 agents see the camera-day count on the invoice but not the log.

First-trip courtesy. If the invoice is the first on the account ever to carry Roam Day fees, a Tier 1 agent may credit up to $30 of them, once per account. Any larger adjustment, or a second request, goes to Billing Operations (Tier 2), who review the connection log. Do not tell the customer what Billing Operations will decide.

7. Failed payments

If a charge fails we retry it 3, 6 and 10 days after the failed charge. If the day-10 retry also fails, the plan is suspended. Live view keeps working; clips already recorded are kept for 30 days after suspension and then deleted. Paying the balance within that time restores the plan and the clips.

8. Tax and currency

Sales tax is added at the rate for the billing postal code. Customers in Canada are billed in US dollars; their card issuer sets the exchange rate and any foreign-transaction fee.
